The challenge

The problem

Threats to health systems exist and a lack of instruments to facilitate response processes to crises

What is needed

Lean, powerful solutions that enable IT platform-independent planning of crisis care pathways alongside strategic planning tools that can guide responses across health and public service domains.

The solution

Procurers from Italy, Portugal, Spain and Greece will jointly tender for the development of a new planning tool.

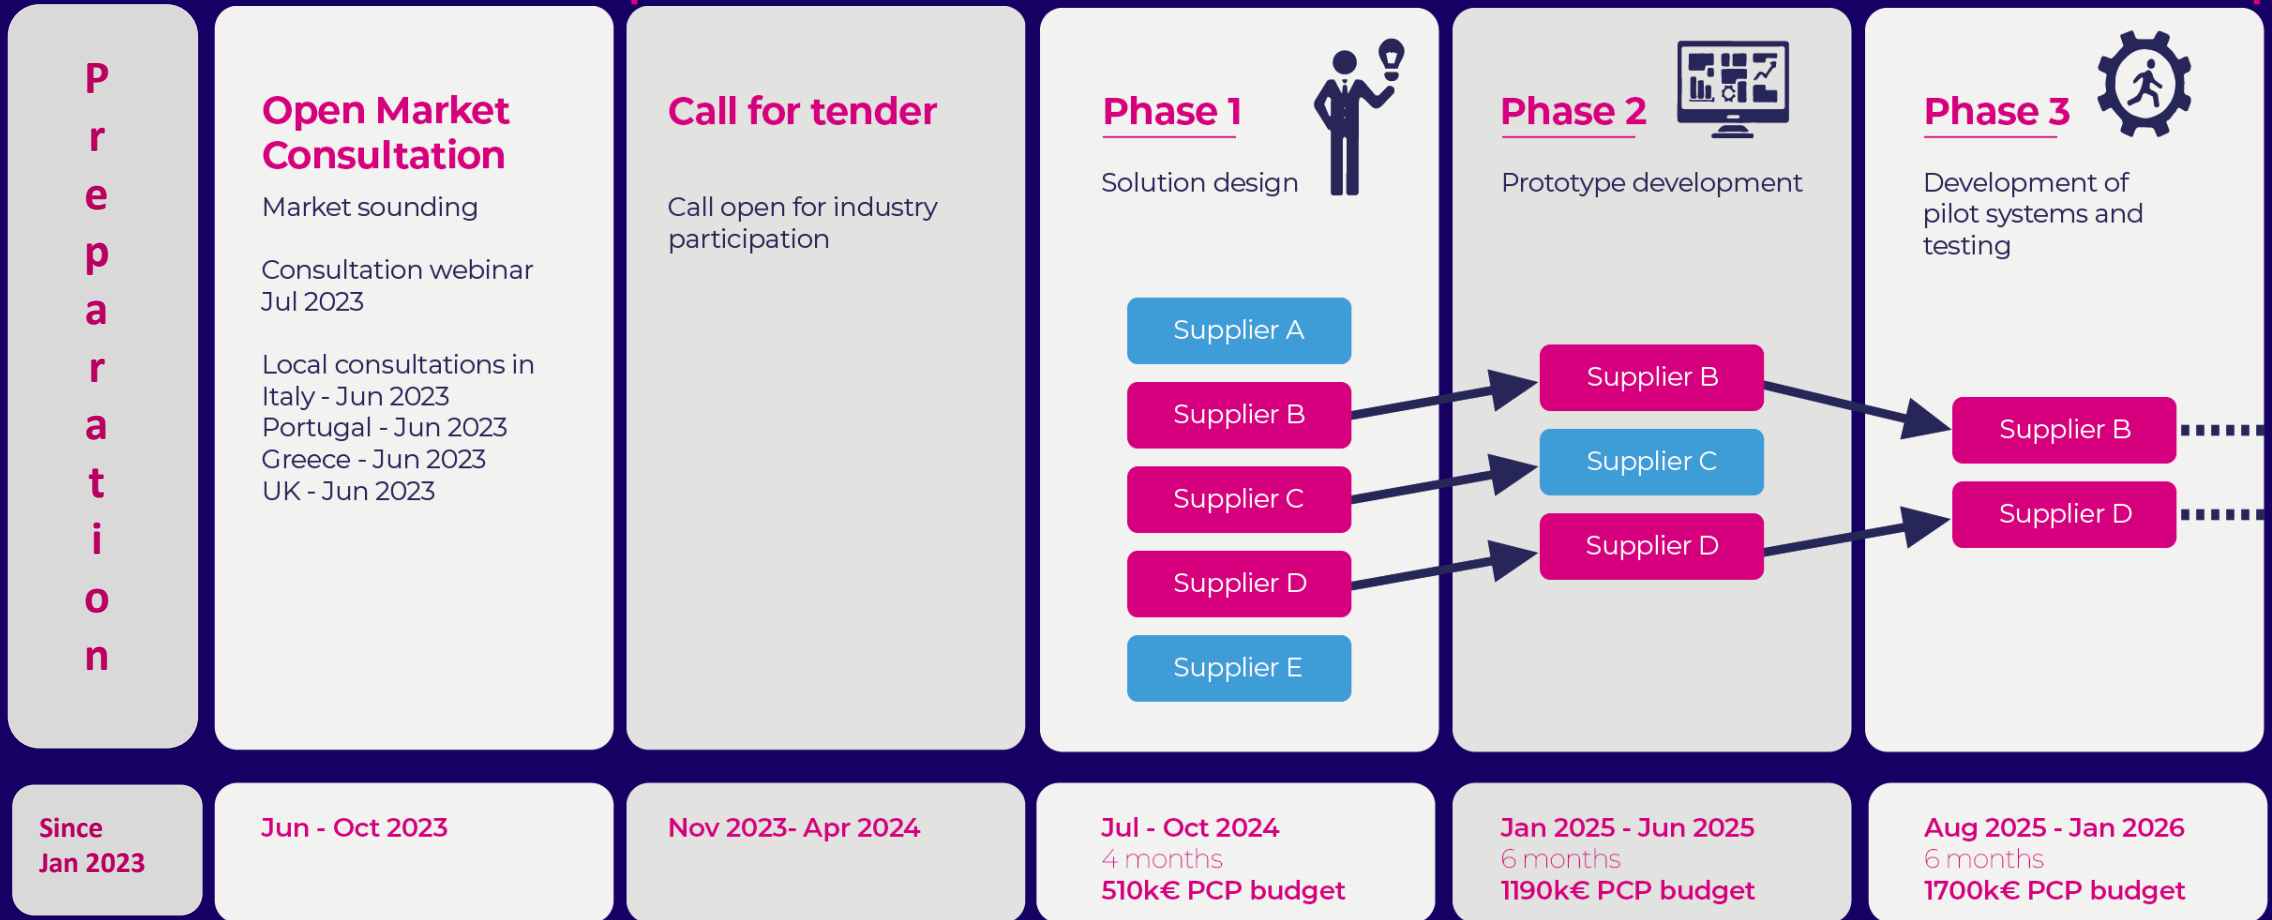

The method

A multi-staged PCP process which will evaluate solutions against criteria, select suitable vendors and in the final project phase, test a fully functional prototype in selected 'high pressure scenarios'
